THE SJB PLAY TIMES 😊

Hello, yes we`re back, it`s the SJB play times crew back again! This time we`re putting in an exciting film review, a detailed report on the reading safari, a riddle, a debate and, of course, our trademark bad joke! We`ve worked ESPECIALLY hard to extract this information, so we really hope you like our issue. Bye for now, The amazing, awesome, spectacular reporter, Oscar.

Fortnightly fact

A cockroach can survive for two weeks with it`s head cut off. It dies of starvation.

What do you call a man with a spade on his head? Douglas 😊

The Greatest Showman Film review

The Greatest Showman is a film depicting the life of Phineas Taylor Barnum, played by Hugh Jackman. The film is rated PG. The film shows you how Barnum invented the circus. Barnum`s posse includes his witty one liner assistant, Philip Carlisle, played by Zac Efron. An elegant, determined trapeze artist, Anne, played by Zendaya. A woman with a beard and an incredible singing voice, played by Keala Settle. And Barnum`s wife Charity, played by Michelle Williams. The film gives off a powerful message: no-one ever made a difference by being like everyone else. I would recommend the film to ANYONE. The film is fun and exciting. I would give it a FIVE OUT OF FIVE. I hope this review has helped persuade you to go and see it and if you see it I hope you like it too. The film also has an amazing soundtrack with lots of catchy tunes and songs. By amazing awesome Oscar 😊

The mythical debate

- K- In my opinion myths and legends are true
- H- I see where you`re coming from Ka Wun but I disagree.
- K- Then please may you explain the sightings of the Loch Ness monster, dragons and unicorns if dinosaurs lived surely other beasts could`ve!
- H- I know what you mean but many sightings have been fake for example lots of mermaid sightings have turned out to be seals or dougons.
- K I see your point Dennett however few important scientists believe in them as well.
- H- That is very true but is there any real evidence that they once roamed the earth. Many people who reported sightings were suspected of just doing it for publicity.
- K- Take the dragon for instance: the Chinese dragon is known throughout the country. English people have the story of George and the dragon. Those 2 countries weren`t connected so how come they both knew about the dragons?
- H- A good example Ka Wun..... And I agree that some myths may have been based on fact but I (along with many others) believe that these legends were merely created to explain strange events that we now know have a perfectly logical explanation.
- Who do you think is right?
- Hey, it's the cool Maisie here with a report on the reading safari. First of all, we're going into my view of it.
- The people close to the SJB community read stories to us children. Everyone's reaction was unique. Some laughed some were very surprised. We walked in our groups to our different locations. The book genres were also different. Some were action-packed and other stories were really nice, some, needless to say, were... well, strange.
- My favourite book was Shifty MC Gifty and Slippery Sam: The diamond chase. Lady Kate is really appealing and beautiful.
- My least favourite book (sorry space fanatics), was Voyage into Space. To me, the book seemed wearisome.
- Now let's see from the others:
- Rose, year 3, liked Charlie and Lola whereas Brieaze, year 4, liked Shifty MC Gifty and Slippery Sam: The diamond chase. Mr Wilson read the poems in his poem book with passion. Maybe teachers do live in school?
- From the cool
- Maisie! 😊
